Feature Story

How do professionals get better at something? How do they become great? Everyone needs a coach, says Bill Gates. Whether we are a CEO, leader, teacher, basketball player or bridge player, we all need people who will help us reach our goals and give us feedback. In District 207, every teacher is paired with an instructional coach with whom they work throughout the year. Through personalized coaching plans, teachers constantly refine their practices in the classroom, with the ultimate goal of improving learning for all students.
